Works in Progress

Conservative Supermoms: Negotiating Theology, Ideology and Strategy. Book length manuscript that uses a multi-method approach to examine debates among conservative and feminist women leaders about gender roles, motherhood and politics. Data come from original interviews with national organizational leaders, qualitative content analysis of organizational documents, press statements, congressional reports, campaign Web sites and newspaper articles and analysis of national public opinion surveys. Interviews for the book include conservative icon and Eagle Forum founder, Phyllis Schlafly, Kelli Carrender, a young woman who held the first Tea Party rally in the United States, and Kim Gandy, former President of the National Organization for Women (NOW). Oxford University Press has reviewed book proposal and invited me to submit chapters to send out for review.

Book Review Editor for Special Issue on Gender and Conservatism. Journal of Women, Politics and Policy. Expected Publication 2020.
